PROFILE

I'm a passionate and detail-oriented Software Engineering student with a strong foundation in web development, problem-solving, and software design. I bring hands-on experience in building user-friendly websites and applications using HTML, CSS, JavaScript, and the MERN stack. I have a creative eye for design, backed by skills in Photoshop and UI/UX principles, which helps me craft visually appealing and functional interfaces.

Beyond code, I thrive in collaborative environments, love debugging challenges, and continuously seek to improve performance and readability. I'm eager to contribute to a team where I can grow, learn from senior developers, and deliver clean, scalable solutions that solve real-world problems. My adaptability, curiosity, and discipline make me a reliable asset for fast-paced development teams.
